Foreword

Kirinyaga University recognizes that open exchange of ideas plays a vital role in the academic endeavor, as often it is only through discussion with others that one is fully able to process information or crystallize an elusive concept. Faculty and students are therefore encouraged to engage in conversations about the courses on offer, research and assignments. Such discussions represent an important component in academic and scholarly practice. It is thus important for all scholars to acknowledge and cite as appropriate incorporated works of other researchers. The University adopted this policy to ensure proper use of resources while at the same time recognizing and preserving importance of academic dialogue.

It is expected that all coursework assignments, projects, laboratory reports, research papers and theses, examinations and other works submitted for academic credit will be original works and appropriate attention and acknowledgement made to highlight information derived from sources.
